Today’s topic focuses on targeted attacks. Traditionally many cyber attacks were opportunistic, they did not care who they hacked, they just knew the more people they hacked the more money they could make or the more damage they could cause. However cyber attackers have become far more sophisticated, many of them now target specific organizations or even specific individuals.

Watch this simple, short video to learn why you may be targeted for a cyber attack, why these attacks are so much more dangerous and how to defend against them.

https://securingthehuman.sans.org/resources/votm

You are encouraged to share these materials with others, including your family, friends and neighbors. If you have any questions about our activities in October or suggestions on how to improve our cyber security efforts, please contact your CyberSecurity Team.

CyberSecurity Team:
Sam Boyster
Diana Morian
Russell Wilson

Last weeks’ archived emails and attachments.